They just had rights to the revenue of their assignments which was collected by their servants while they are serving in other parts of country.

Let's Understand

Q.5 What was the role of the zamindar in Mughal administration?

Ans.: The Zamindars in the Mughal administration were basically the local headmen of villages or powerful chieftains.

Role of the zamindar in Mughal administration are:

1. Zamindars were appointed by rulers.
2. They acted as intermediaries between the rulers and the peasants.
3. They were responsible for collecting revenue from the peasants.

Q.6 How were the debates with religious scholars important in the formation of Akbar's ideas on governance?

Ans.: Akbar was very much interested in the religious practices of different cultures and regions and often debated on such issues with religious scholars.

These debates helped Akbar in framing the idea of sulh-i -kul or 'universal peace'. By using such a policy of tolerance Akbar was able to formulate governance guidelines which were based on a system of ethics, honesty, justice and peace.

His ideas on governance were in effect shaped by his liberal and secular views on religion; as a result, few developments during his reign were –

1. He abolished the jaziya tax that was levied on the non-Muslim.
2. Provided every community with freedom of religion to profess and practice their faiths without any fear.

Q.7 Why did the Mughals emphasise their Timurid and not their Mongol descent?

Ans.: The main reason for Mughals to emphasized their Timurid descent, that Ghengiz Khan's memory was associated with the massacre of innumerable people, and also linked with Uzbegs, their Mongol competitors.

On the other hand, they prided themselves on the fact that Timur had captured Delhi in 1398.

Let's discuss

Q.8 How important was the income from land revenue to the stability of the Mughal Empire?

Ans.: The Mughal Empire was very big therefore to maintain the law and order in the large area, soldiers were required for the proper administration. For their salary and maintaining law and order, a huge amount of finance was required which came from the revenue.

Therefore income from land revenue was the main source of income for the Mughal rulers and hence it was very important.

Q.9 Why was it important for the Mughals to recruit mansabdars from diverse backgrounds and not just Turanis and Iranis?

Ans.: It was important for the Mughals to recruit mansabdars from diverse backgrounds and not just Turanis and Iranis because:

1. The empire had expanded to encompass different regions and provinces thus it was needed to provide stability to the empire.
2. The problems of common folks would be understood better by the people living with them only.
3. Mughal also didn't wanted people to rebel against them on the issue of privileges to Turanis and Iranis.
4. They came here to rule so they needed to maintain a balance between the diversity of the country as well as respect it.
